Free Screening of the Documentary Film “Freakonomics” At Miami City Hall March 25th

-A film based on the bestselling book-

(Miami, FL March 9, 2011)— Miami Commissioner Marc D. Sarnoff invites you to the Movie Night screening of the documentary film Freakonomics on Friday, March 25h at 6:30 p.m., inside Miami City Hall.

The film Freakonomics is based on the phenomenally bestselling book by Steven Levitt and Stephen Dubner about incentives-based thinking. The movie examines human behavior and tries to explain it using scientific and economic theory with provocative and sometimes hilarious case studies.

Freakonomics brings together a dream team of filmmakers including the directors of Super Size Me, Enron: The Smartest Guys In the Room and Why We Fight. You can find out more about the film here:

There is no charge for admission and free popcorn will be served before the start of the movie. Parking is available at City Hall at no cost.

The film is part of the Movie Night series regularly hosted by Commissioner Sarnoff, who encourages residents of Miami to come down to City Hall and meet him and other elected officials.

For more information about the Movie Night series please contact William Plasencia at wplasencia@miamigov.com or (305) 250-5331 and reference the film.
